L&T Director elected President of Indian Institute of Chemical Engineers

January 03, 2007: Mr. K. Venkataramanan, Member of the Board and President (E&C Projects), was elected President of the Indian Institute of Chemical Engineers (IChE). He will hold office in the 60 th (diamond jubilee) year of the institute.

Established in 1947, the IChE is the apex professional society of chemical engineers in India , with over 18,000 members on its rolls. It has emerged as a national platform overseeing the interests of the academia as well as industry in the field of chemical engineering and allied sciences.

Mr. Venkataramanan said he would direct his efforts to build on the historical traditions of the institute to expand its role and relevance in contemporary industry and society. Making particular mention of the youth, he said the institute would enhance its engagements with young chemical engineers and provide avenues to help them enhance their capabilities and expertise.
